Building Your New Community Health Centre

In August, staff attended a community BBQ in Hamilton and Brantford. At the BBQs the Community Members were asked to design their new Aboriginal Health Centre. Puzzle pieces of each of the current program areas were available and people would design their vision for the health centre. It was very interesting to note that most of the participants identified the need for outdoor space and living items (i.e. trees, plants, herbs, etc.). A plexiglass divider was provided in the event that the person wanted to design a two level facility.

ceremonial/teaching space for their students and the community at large. Although the structure is not complete, the space was unveiled in August 2015.

As well, discussion were also focused on partnerships and possible student placements. More discussions will occur in the future to better define the partnership opportunities.

Langs Community, Health, Wellness

The Board and Management had an opportunity to tour the Langs Community, Health, Wellness Centre in Cambridge. Langs is a Community Hub that was funded through a combination federal and municipal grants, fundraising and financing by the health centre. The Langs Community was integral in every part of the HUB creation, from deciding on the which programs will be included in the hub to the design and furnishing of the hub.
